Connect it to Wi-Fi and link to your devices, and you'll be asking Google to turn on smart lights or pull up YouTube videos on your TV in no time. Its outward appearance hasn't changed much since then, but Google has given the underlying AI—known as the Google Assistant—kick, adding the ability to recognize multiple voices and customize responses with your personal information, more smart home integration, and the option to use it as a Bluetooth speaker, among other things. Google Home stands just under 6 inches high and 4 inches wide, so it won't take up too much space on a side table or counter. For instance, if you're redoing your office, you can view a home office design gallery for ideas on layouts and decor. Make sure you choose one that is authorized and highly recommended in your area. When you're ready to rethink your space and create a new look for your home, these tips can help you get started. Define your new layout Before taking a pencil and starting to draw new drawings of the Reimagined space, think about how you intend to use it and how it should appear. This includes the Google Home Mini, whose second generation is now called Google Nest Mini. Google Nest Mini Review Google Nest Hub See see Are you more of a visual person? Google Nest Hub Review Google Nest Hub Max See If you need a little more real estate screen, the Nest Hub Max is a $229 smart display with a 10-inch screen and a front camera for video calls. Whether you've lived in your home for years and you're ready for an upgrade or you've just bought a fixer-top, redesigning your home is exciting but also a lot of work. The Google Nest Mini is the cheapest Google Assistant smart speaker you can buy, but it doesn't offer much improvement over the previous model. While dealers clear their supply of first-generation Home Mini devices, it's probably still possible to find a couple of floats around, and nab one for a theft. A newer model of the camera, the Nest Cam IQ Indoor includes these same features, with the added benefit of an improved 4K sensor and smarter software that can distinguish between people, pets and objects, and even identify the specific people for you. Nest Tag attach to the keychains to easily arm and disarm Nest Secure, pass them over the Nest Guard hub. hub.
